Title I School of Recognition Award

Schools from around the state learned this week that they are among 135 being recognized for their success in educating students. All of the schools receive federal Title I funding to provide services to high numbers or high percentages of economically disadvantaged families. "The state's Title I Schools of Recognition awards recognize the efforts of students, their families, teachers, school administrators, and school staff members to break the link between poverty and low academic achievement," said State Superintendent Tony Evers. "Their success is something to celebrate." The schools will be honored during a May 21 ceremony at the State Capitol. Schools meeting all criteria will receive a plaque at the awards ceremony.

The 2018 Title I Schools of Recognition include 24 High-Achieving schools, 40 High-Progress schools, and 87 Beating-the-Odds schools. Sixteen schools have earned honors in two categories. This year's 135 Title I School of Recognition Award recipients include 111 elementary schools serving K-8 students, 18 middle or junior high schools, and six high schools.

CHAPPELL'S AWARD

Beating-the-Odds Schools

- are in the top 25 percent of high-poverty schools in the state
- have above-average student achievement in reading and mathematics when compared to schools from similarly sized districts, schools, grade configurations, and poverty levels

THINK SAFETY FIRST

The safety of your child is very important to us. When you are dropping off or picking up your child, please

DO NOT LET YOUR CHILD RUN ACROSS THE ROAD .

MEDICATIONS -

If your child has medication at school, it needs to be picked up no later than 2:00 pm on Monday, June 11. A parent/guardian must pick up the meds. Medication CANNOT be sent home with a child. Any medicine at school after 2:00 pm on Monday June 11 will be disposed of.

Guidance Notes

Dr. Philip Fitch Vincent, Director of the Character Development Group, has tips for raising children of character:

1. Put parenting first. Good parents consciously plan and devote time to parenting. They make developing their children's character their top priority.
2. Review how you spend the hours and days of your week. Think about the amount of time your children spend with you. Plan how you can weave your children into your social life and knit yourself into their lives.
3. Be a good example. You can't avoid being an example to your children, whether good or bad. Being a good example, then, is probably your most important job.
4. Develop an ear and an eye for what your children are absorbing. Books, songs, TV, the Internet, and films are continually delivering messages — moral and immoral — to our children. As parents we must control the flow of ideas and images which are influencing our children.
5. Punish with a loving heart. Children need limits. Children must understand what punishment is for and know that its source is parental love.
6. Learn to listen to your children. It is easy to tune out the talk of our children. One of the greatest things we can do for them is to take them seriously and set aside time to listen.
7. Get deeply involved in your child's school life. Helping our children become good students is another name for helping them acquire strong character.

Make a big deal of the family meal. Manners and rules are subtly absorbed over the table. Family mealtime should communicate and sustain ideals which children will draw on throughout their lives.

Espacio de Español

Feliz Cinco de Mayo! The 5th of May is a day to celebrate Mexican heritage here in the United States. May you enjoy all the things the Mexican culture has to offer: chocolate, tortillas, or tacos this month. The fifth graders have been corresponding with students from Memphis, Tennessee and Milwaukee, Wisconsin. They have also communicated with them by creating an online video program called, Flipgrid, where they can video a response and the other schools can post and view ours in a safe secure site.

Have fun this summer!
Don't forget to read every day!

DEMOGRAPHIC INFORMATION

Starting June 1, 2018, all families can sign in to the parent portal in Infinite Campus to update their demographic information for their child. If you have any difficulties getting signed in or making changes, please contact the district technology department at 448-2148 and they will assist you. It is very important that we have the most current address and telephone numbers on file as possible.
